CAMP WOOD AT KAHULUI

A Hundred Railroad Men
Live There.

WAS QUARANTINE STATION

How Superintendent Filler Has Improved the Place for His Laborers.

WAILUKU, Maui, Dec. 8.—When Camp Wood was abandoned as a quarantine station the buildings were purchased by the H. C. & S. Co. for the use of the laborers of the Kahului Railroad Company, and more than one hundred of them are domiciled there now.

At the invitation, and in company with Superintendent Filler, the Maui News man visited the camp on Wednesday afternoon to observe the sanitary conditions. The population of the same consists of Hawaiians, Chinese and Japanese, some of whom are single men and some who have families. The grounds are covered with a growth of soft, velvety grass and are kept absolutely free from all rubbish and garbage, which is gathered every morning and carried nearly half a mile from the camp. Lime is freely used and the houses and grounds are perfectly free from all disagreeable odors.

When the buildings were first turned over to Superintendent Filler he removed the rough board floors and fitted every building in the camp with neat, tongued and grooved floors. The buildings are kept neatly whitewashed inside and out and the occupants are required to keep the floors of their rooms scrupulously clean. Each family has one or more rooms of its own and the single men are assigned to rooms in groups of not more than five to one large room. No cooking is allowed in the living rooms, kitchens having been built near the living rooms for culinary purposes. Superintendent Filler states that at first he had some difficulty in making the occupants keep their premises clean and finally he adopted the plan, after ineffectual warnings, of simply taking the offending members, with their household goods, and putting them out into the road without further warning. Two or three repetitions of this was sufficient and as a result every room in the camp is kept as neat and clean as a parlor.

A number of the rooms of the single men were inspected and the most careful housewife could have found nothing in their condition to complain of. Then the families of the married men were visited in their homes and everything was as spick and span as a new pin. The women seemed proud of the neat appearance of their rooms, as they well might be.

A camp boss is in charge of the premises and it is his duty to see that everything is kept in good order in the camp. Superintendent Filler has carefully weeded out all inefficient men, and as the Kahului Railroad Company pays good wages, he has the pick of the best men on the Islands for laborers. The people in the camp can afford to live well and as a result their physical condition and mental and moral characters seem to have undergone a change so that they absolutely look different and more manly. It would be a good idea for some of the plantation managers on Maui to visit the camp and imitate some of the reforms there initiated.

Another thing for which Mr. Filler deserves much credit is the number of trees which he has set out in the camp. In a few years beautiful rows of trees will adorn every avenue to the camp. This improvement in the condition of the laborers was not undertaken as a philanthropic, but rather as a utilitarian measure, and the company is already reaping the fruits of its work in securing a well-fed, well-housed, healthy and contented set of industrious and reliable laborers.

SEARCHING FOR THIEF.

Description of John Burr Who Stole $15,000 in Wisconsin.

The United States Express Company has offered a reward of $500 and ten per cent of the money recovered, alleged to have been stolen by John Arrand Burr Jr., a clerk of the United States Express Company, Green Bay, Wis. Burr is said to have disappeared from there on Saturday, November 3, 1900, about midnight.

High Sheriff Brown has received advice from E. S. Averill, general superintendent of the express company, in regard to Burr, and is asked to look out for him.

Burr is described as "a crafty man, and one who will devise means to disguise and change his appearance; he will believe that a thorough search will be made for him. The upper part of the face, the forehead, shape of the brow and nose cannot be readily disguised. The expression of the eyes, which is the real and sure means of identification in such cases, cannot be changed. The eyes are deep set, and deep at the corners; two deep lines extend from the nose downward past the mouth, and a deep dimple marks the chin; there is a bulge on the right nostril. He is dressey, and looks like a commercial traveler. He has been a reader of detective stories, books of travel and literature on ancient Rome.

"He carried away with him about $15,000, of which $5,000 was in gold coin, and the remainder in currency. He is 34 years of age, 5 feet 10 1/2 inches high; weight 162 pounds; fair complexion, dark brown hair, brown mustache, which has lately been dyed black. Has large indentation between bridge and point of nose where he was struck by a baseball bat, leaving it somewhat flattened, giving the low-left-handed, and writes left-handed. Has taken the Keeley cure, but is reported to again be using liquor, and is inclined to mingle with the sporting community."

CHARLES PURDY HURT.

Falls From His Bicycle and Breaks Two Ribs.

While riding along King street day before yesterday on his way from his home in Waikiki to his post of duty, Charles Purdy met with a serious accident.

As it was very early in the morning, Mr. Purdy was riding with a lamp which shortly after making the Waikiki turn jolted loose, swung around into the spokes of the front wheel, and brought the bicycle to an abrupt halt. Mr. Purdy was violently thrown over the handles.

He was picked up by some people passing by and taken to Dr. Howard's house. He had two ribs broken, a skinned chin and a bruised chest. His wounds were dressed and he was taken home.

ARTHUR MERRY'S DESERVED SUCCESS

Popular Yachtsman now Chief
Clerk of Navy Department

Arthur L. Merry, clubman, yachtsman and expert amateur photographer, has met with deserved good fortune. With yesterday's mail Mr. Merry received from the secretary of the navy his commission, appointing him to the position of chief clerk of the local commandant.

Mr. Merry has for a long time been connected with the station in a clerical capacity, but until this time has had no official recognition from the department. His appointment is given in appreciation of the excellent work done by him during his association with the navy.

Mr. Merry is an expert with the camera, and has used his art skillfully in making photographs of the improvements being made in the station, much to the benefit of the department. Views taken by him and forwarded to headquarters brought him before the notice of the office at Washington, and with other valuable work accomplished by him, secured the new appointment with an attendant handsome salary. Aside from the special work in photographic lines done for the department, Mr. Merry is credited with being a most proficient man for the appointment, and his general popularity has brought him many hearty congratulations.

Mr. Merry also figured as an officer in a blockading squadron during the Spanish war, and was known as a skillful navigator. He was recently elected commodore of the Healei Club, and is one of the most enthusiastic yachtsmen in the Islands.
